Domestic Experience—Deserted While on a Visit to Her Mother-Injunction Proceedings.

Lea Marionberg filed a petition for divorce, yesterday, at Independence, which recites a tale of domestic woe, caused by a fickle husband, who wood and won her money in a land across the sea. Mrs. Marienberg states in her petition that she married Max Marionberg January 24, 1887, in the city of Paris, France. She was possessed of quite a little fortune when she wedded Max, and their married life in the gay metropolls was as happy as one could wish. She and he pooled their financial as well as their domestic fortunes and started up a jewelry store, which for a time was a paying investment for them both. During the month of May, 1863, Mrs. Marionberg says she went on a visit to her mother, who resides at Strasburg, a city quite distant from Paris. During the month of June of the same year, while still resting under the parental roof, she received a letter from Paris to the effect that she had better return at once. She did so and found on her return home that her husband had sold out the jewelry store, which was sold out the jewelry store, which we owned jointly and left for parts unknown.

Mrs. Marionberg not only wants her name changed, but also wants other relief, such as the court may grant for her support should she ever find her recreant husband. She asks that her married name be dropped and her maiden name, Lea Wolff, be resumed. The plaintiff states that shortbe resumed. The plaintiff states that short-ly after her hus; and's departure she came to America and has been a bona fide resi-dent of Jackson county for over a year. Iva M. McFoy was another applicant for legal separation. She wants a divorce from her husband, Robert F. McFoy, who, she her husband, Robert F. McFoy, who, she alleges, was convicted of horsestealing in Vernon county, Mo. Mrs. McFoy nil gos that she and Robert were married June 28, 1887, in Bourbon county, Kas. In July of the same year the sheriff of Vernon county called for him and conducted him across the state line on the charge of horse stealing. MeFoy was convicted and sen-tenced to the state penitentiary for a ferm of two years, which he served. She remained true to him while he was work-ing for the state, but at the expiration of his sentence instead of returning to her he left for parts unknown. She asks the comto be allowed to resume her maiden name.

SEVERAL MURDER CASES.

Proceedings Before Judge Wofford of the

In the criminal court yesterday Charles Biggs, who is charged with murder in the first degree for the killing of Nicholas Smith not long since at Sheffield, was arraigned. He entered a plea of not guilty and his trial was set for February 5. Self-defense will be his plea.

A PARTNER DISSATISFIED.

He Wants a Receiver Appointed for the Company in Which He Is Interested.

Judge Dobson last evening issued a re-straining order upon a petition filed by W. E. Brandenburgh, of the Kansas City View E. Brandenburgh, of the Kansas City View Co., against his partner, C. K. Bowen, and A. J. and B. G. Rhodes, to prevent them with interfering with the property of the Kansas City View Company, which does business at 1431 Walnut street. The plaintiff stated that he had been sick for about a year and that during that time his partner had had charge of the business in which he owned a half interest. But he said the business had been so managed that the books are all tangled up so as to make it appear that the concern has paid out $1,000 more than it has taken in. sald Rhodes Bros, had a mortrage on the business for $225 and were about to fore-close. He wants the fore-closure stopped and a receiver appointed to take charge of the business.

Two Judges Absent.

The circuit court was short two judges yesterday. Judge Morrow was absent in St. Louis, so there was no court in the Fourth division, and Judge Slover did not come up from Independence. Judge Scarritt opened court for Judge Slover in the Second division, and, after passing on two or three matters, adjourned until the usual boars to work.

Cases Were Not Called.

The cases against the officers of the Pettis County Bond and Investment Company that were to have been called in the federal court yesterday were continued, owing to the absence from the city of At-torney Walker. No date was set for the hearing of the cases and they will be taken up later in the term.

Suit for Alleged Slander. Mrs. Lizzle Brown filed a mallelous slander suit in the circuit court yesterday in which she asked the court for a judg-

The Model clothing house has secured the services of Mr. Oscar Sachs as assistant manager for its establishment. Mr. Oscar Sachs eight years ago severed his connection with the Model, for which he acted as cashler and bookkeeper, in order to embark in the real estate business and later on conducted a wholesale liquor business. Mr. Sachs has a wide circle of friends, especially among the German-American population. He is one of the founders of the German hospital and one of its directors and has been secretary of that institution since its erection nine years ago.

NOVEL ENTERTAINMENT.

GIVEN AT ACADEMY OF MUSIC BY CENTRAL LITERARY CLUB.

Programme From Regioning to End Was One of Exceptional Interest-Scene In the Office of an Employ. ment Boreau.

In the matter of novelty one of the best entertainments ever given by a society of the high school was that offered by the Central Literary Club last evening at the Academy of Music. The plan of the programme as well as the individual work of several of the entertainers reflected great credit upon the originality of the club. The programme was divided into two partsthe first a so-called "employment bureau" and the second a farce requiring the services of four members,

The employment bureau was announced to the audience in a neat circular with the officers of the institution printed in due business form. Charles M. Bush, the manager, further elucidated the purposes of the bureau in a dictation to his stonographer, followed by an office sollloquy. Then came the several applicants for positions. They were announced by an energetic office boy who bere their cards, when the visitors had cards, and the patient manager gave them each a hearing. First came Eleanor M. Barnet, with claims as a lecturer, and she illustrated her power in an intelligent and well expressed talk on "Quality, not Quantity." J. B. Page, in the grotesque habiliments, the flowing hair and the tragic stride of a barnstormer, showed cause why he should be engaged as an actor. His burlesque tragedy was immense and was the comedy hit of the evening. Here the manager was interrupted by an unannounced visitor, a heavy set impersor impersor. nounced visitor, a besgar girl, impersonated by Miss Pet Lyle, who gave two well rendered violin solor and receives from the manager a contribution and went her way.

Two operatic singers next appeared in the characters of Reuben and Cynthia. These characters were taken by Miss Peters were characters were taken by Miss Eula Na-talle Cooper and Whitfield Mulford, who sang clever parolles on "Reuben and Cynthia" and other popular songs, indulg-ing in much pleasantry at the expense of the other societies. P. J. Leidigh came for-ward as a would-be journalist and read some "copy" on "Progress" showing that some "copy" on "Progress," showing that some copy on 'Progress,' showing that he had a keen appreclation of the evolu-tion of man and his affairs. L.S.Ganson, as an advertising poet, read a whole canto in rhyme about the Associated Charities and received many a laugh for his pointed personal references. That completed the day's work. The lights were turned low and as the manager put his deak in order he was serenaded from without by a mandolin club, as the curtain slowly descended, shut-ting the office from view. The closing feature of the programme was a farce entitled "Her Only Fault," a well chosen play for the purposes of the society, in the performance of which J. B. Page, Thomas A. Berkebite, Miss Madge McAlister and Miss Haidee F. Berger acquitted themselves with much credit. whole programme was one of exceptional interest and was enjoyed by a large au-

Augustine Gallagher, of the Modern Miller, who attended the meeting of millers held in Chicago on January 22, said yesterday concerning the meeting:

"It was a small gathering of delegates from all the millers associations of the United States. Its object was to federate all the associations into one body. There is now in eviateous what is known as the is now in existence what is known as the National Millers' Association. It is a large and somewhat unwieldly body, and its annual meetings are run on the mass convention order. What is desired is a small and compact central body which will be composed of delegates from the various milling associations of the country. The following report was submitted by a committee appointed by the meeting and it was unanimously indersed:

"Your committee have to report that they have discussed fully the matters reterted to them, and beg leave to say that upon the representation of the gentlemen s now in existence what is known as the

As to the objects to be at-tained, this committee recommends to all millers outside the National Association to become members of said association and to select representatives to the board of directors previous to the next annual meet-ing in May not to exceed one member for directors previous to the next annual meet-ing in May, not to exceed one member for each state, and that prior to that time, a meeting of the representatives of the new membership be requested to meet the executive committee of the National Miliers' Association in order to formulate and recommend to the annual meeting of the Millers' National Association such changes as may be necessary to accomplish the de-sired result."

Marvels in Surgical Science.

Marvels in Surgical Science.

The latest sensation in surgery has been discovered by the writer in the case of H. Mockley, a middle-aged man living near the Keystone from works, in Kansas City, Kas., a butcher and packer by trade. He had been rendered helpless by a large tumor formed in the artery of his right leg, local and Kansas City surgeons regarding the case hopeless unless amputation of the limb was performed at once. Circulation of the blood below the knee had almost ceased and leg and foot had turned black. Mr. Mockley refused to permit amputation. ceased and leg and foot had turned black.
Mr. Mockley refused to permit amputation, called Dr. Carson, the vitapathle physician, at 93 Broadway, who gave him relief in a few treatments, and in less than two weeks Mr. Mockley resumed his usual duties, fully relieved, and is now able to do a good day's work, and has the full and free use of his limb. The tumor has disfree use of his limb. The tumor has disappeared and no need for further treatment. Who can believe without seeing, these modern wonders that are being performed by this doctor? Nature certainly has bestowed upon him a rare gift, and power. Medicine may fail and his treatment give relief, but who can believe this power would invade the realms of eperative surgery and bid the skilled surgeon stay his knife when about to remove a member of gery and bid the skilled surgeon stay has knife when about to remove a member of the human body, and the hand of Dr. Car-son afterward restore in a few treatments, the sufferer to the full and perfect use of the afflicted portion of the body, surely the light of a new truth begins to dawn when the world. upon the world.

and showed him the attic where he has a brood of eight sparrrows whose grandparents were raised in that room Three years ago when Mr. King first began to run the elevator he started in carrying his lunch, and when it came time to eat it he would run his elevator time to eat it he would run his elevator up into the top story beyond interrup-tion. Being a person of scrupulous reg-ularity, he has never since missed a day in eating his lunch up there in the top of the court house when not kept away by sickness. A couple of sparrows, the great great grandparents of the brood great grant grandparents of the broad now there, soon learned to fly through the open window to be fed with crumbs from the elevator man's lunch basket. When their broad was hatched they coaxed all the fledglings there to feed and King fed them. When winter approached he allowed the young birds to stay inside, the windows being closed on them, and he fed and watered them till spring. Then he drove them all forth but a pair, which he allowed to nest there. This has been repeated each year, and the broad of sparrows now in the top of the court house is the most year, and the brood of sparrows now in the top of the court house is the most aristocratic family of the breed of birds in Kansus City, having a pedigree three years long and an entailed estate with a living attached. Mr. King re-quested that his successor lend his pro-tection for the perpetuation of the feath-ered dynasty of the court house attic.

Mrs. Margaret Olvey Cookinham was born in Charlestown, Ind., June 6, 1899. Her life was one in which the shadows mingled thickly with the sunshine, but only served to make the picture more beautiful. By the faithful discharge of every duty she won the regard of all who know her. Acwon the regard of all who knew her. Ac-tive, thorough, kind and sympathetic she went her way through life, leaving her im-press on all she touched. At the age of 16 she became a member of the Presbyter-lan church and ever afterwards led an earnest Christian life, seeking to know the truth and to show it forth to all about her. DEATH OF DR. JOHN K. STARK

DECEASED WAS ONE OF THE FIRST DENTISTS TO SETTLE HERE.

His Sudden Taking Off Was Due Paralysis of the Heart-In Good Health Up to the Hour the Summons Came.

Dr. John K. Stark, for over forty years a resident of Missouri and one of the first dentists to settle in Jackson county, died very suddenly at his home, 400 East Ninth street, about Il o'clock on Friday night. He was 65 years of age. His death was caused by paralysis of the heart. He had been in comparatively good health during the day and went to bed at 10 o'clock in good spirits. About half an hour later he woke up suffering from a smothering fit, and took his seat in a chair. He said to his brother-in-law, E. R. Venable, that he thought the fit would be over within a few minutes, but his wife became alarmed and Dr. Casey was summened. Within a short time after sending for a physician Dr. Stark expired. His death was peaceful and painless. The funeral services will be held at the residence of J. H. Beckham, 5665

During the war Dr. Stark went to the City of Mexico, where he remained until bostliftes ceased, when he returned to Independence. Mrs. Stark dual. returned to Independence. Mrs. Stark diein 185. About 1870 Dr. Stark set up an office in Kansas City and for a time he prac-ticed both here and in Independence? Later his practice was confined to this city. In 1871 he married Miss Ellen White, daughter of W. N. White, of Independence. She and a son, John Gare Stack, 14 years of age, survive him. Mrs. Stark is a sister of Mrs. J. H. Beckham, Mrs. Alexander Lobb and Mrs. E. B. Venable. Dr. Stark's first office in this city was on Main street between Second and Third treats. Then he removed to the Pherotechical Stark's Then he removed to the Pherotechical Stark's Stark of the Pherotechical Starks of the Pherotechical S streets. Then he removed to the Pher building. Next his office was on the Les-building. Next his office was on the Les-ter property on Sixth street between Main and Walnut streets. His last office was at Seventh street and Grand avenue. He re-tired from business in 1881. About twenty years ago Dr. Stark re-selved a stroke of paralysis, but, being strong, he recovered. Since the time of his retirement he had been in somewhat feeble health, though his mind was very active, and he took a keen interest in al that took place in the city and outside of it. He was a fine type of a gentleman of he old school and was an enthusia portsman. He was one of the char embers of the Knnsas City Gun Club and
